| 1) A stable careers programme | Every school and college should have an embedded programme of career education and guidance that is known and understood by pupils, parents, teachers, governors and employers |
| 2) Learning from career and labour market information | Every student, and their parents, should have access to good quality information about future study options and labour market opportunities. They will need the support of an informed adviser to make best use of available information |
| 3) Addressing the needs of each student | Students have different careers guidance needs at different stages. Opportunities for advice and support need to be tailored to the needs of each student. A school's careers programme should embed quality and diversity considerations throughout. |
| 4) Linking curriculum learning to careers | All teachers should link learning with careers. STEM based subject teachers should highlight the relevance of STEM subjects for a wide range of future career paths. |
| 5) Encounters with employers and employees | Every student should have multiple opportunities to learn from employers about work, employment and the skills that are valued in the workplace. This can be through a range of enrichment activities including visiting speakers, mentoring and enterprise schemes. |
| 6) Experience of work places | Every student should have first-hand experience of the workplace through work visits, work shadowing and/or work experience to help their exploration of career opportunities and, expand their networks. |
| 7) Encounters with further and higher education | All students should understand the full range of learning opportunities that are available to them. This includes both academic and vocational routes and learning in schools, colleges, universities and the workplace. |
| 8) Personal Guidance | Every student should have opportunities for guidance interviews with a careers adviser, who could be internal (a member of school staff) or external, provided they are trained to the appropriate level. These should be available whenever significant changes or career choices are being made. They should be expected for all students but should be timed to meet their individual needs. |
